

Broken Pieces

Sometimes God will allow everything to break and crumble all around you, and sometimes God will allow the struggle of life to come up to your neck. But if God said, "You're going to the other side." Then you're going to the other side. You will not drown in your struggle.

You can trust and believe! Take God at his word! Proverbs 3:5 says, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not unto your own understanding."

God said, "You will be alright." No matter how great this storm is, no matter how dark it looks, just remember you're going to the other side even if you got to go on broken pieces.

You have a destiny. You've got to get to your destination. It's a dangerous season right now. You have encountered great difficulty because of the storm. There's a tempestuous wind, but the angel of the Lord said, "Do not be afraid." You won't lose your life in this storm, allow the storm to make you and not break you because you're going to the other side.

A shipwreck has hit your life, the storm has ripped you apart. You've got to get anchored in this storm. Trust in the Lord and stand on broken pieces! You will survive this storm!

Grab a hold to a plank to stay afloat, or sit down on a piece of the board. However, hold onto a piece of the broken ship because you're going to the other side on the broken pieces.

Broken but better! As one preacher said, "Hold on to the pieces. Broken, but usable." You may be broken, but God wants to use you.
